

Did You Know?

LG Solar

LG Can Make Title 24 Seamless for You

Are you concerned about the new Title 24 regulations that require solar panels on most new homes in California? As experts in the solar and homebuilding industries, LG is here to help you integrate solar energy seamlessly into your 2020 projects.

Why is LG the best solar partner for your business?

LG already knows the homebuilder business. We have worked with homebuilders for many years to provide premium products for your construction projects.

LG Solar produces high-output, high-efficiency, reliable solar panels that are built to last and backed by 25-year product, performance and labor* (*up to $450) warranties.

LG is a known, trusted brand. Your customers may already have an LG TV, refrigerator or washing machine, and they will hopefully choose those options for their new home—so why not stick with one brand?

We provide top-quality products in three major building categories that are important to compliance with Title 24: appliances, solar panels and energy storage. You might have also heard of LG Hausys, which specializes in windows and interior materials, and LG HVAC products.

LG is developing new smart products that will work together in the smart home of the future. We could potentially connect all of your customers' smart systems and appliances down the road.

Interested in learning more? Check out our new, free e-book: California's Title 24 Update: New Standards, New Solutions
LG Solar's goal is to help you focus on what you do best: build homes. Leave the solar concerns to us!

When you go solar, ask for the brand you can trust: LG Solar

